RAJYA SABHA

(b) if so, whether Government propose to set up a regularly body to monitor the functioning of the Cable TV industry in order to address the problems of gullible consumers i.e. the cable TV viewers; and

(c) if not, the reasons for not setting up such a regulatory body on the lines of TRAI?

THE MINISTER OF INFORMATION AND BROADCASTING (SHRIMATI SUSHMA SWARAJ): (a) to (c) A large number of Content Providers (Satellite Channels) and Cable operators are operating in India. The monthly rates of subscription charged by Cable operators from the individual consumer depends on factors such as location, number of channels provided, number of Cable TV operators in the particular area etc. As reported recently in the newspapers, the Monopoly and Restrictive Trade Practices Commission had issued notices to television networks for over-charging subscribers of pay channels. Cable operators are also regulated by provisions of Cable Television Networks (Regulation) Act, 1995.
